

A change of form terrifies humans for they define themselves through form.

Humans define themselves in, with, through the form of beginning and end.

A disappearance of something that once appears ruins their sense of stability.

Stability gives humans a sense of existence.

Stability is an illusion of existence.

Stability excludes possibilities.

It excludes other possibilities.

In, with, through stability there exists the one and only possibility - the possibility of stability.

Stability creates a fantasy of no possibilities.

Practising stability humans create a fantasy of no possibilities.

Possibilities petrify them.

Infinite possibilities are How, Why, What Is.

Infinite possibilities are existence.

Existence is How, Why, What Manifests and How, Why, What Is To Manifest.

Existence does not need to manifest.

Existence just is.

Infinite possibilities that are existence require choice.

Humans do not like choosing.

They do not like choosing again and again.

Infinite possibilities require moment-to-moment choosing.

Humans prefer to choose once and be set.

(T)here is no state of being set, stable, still.

No such state exists.

Stillness does not exist.

Stillness is in motion_with motion_through motion.

Stillness is motion.

Stillness is the motion that inceeds and exceeds the capacity of human perception.

You within the physical form are no limitation to you within the nonphysical form.

Neither are you within the nonphysical form limitation to you within the physical form.

You without the physical form are no limitation to you without the nonphysical form.

Neither are you without the nonphysical form limitation to you without the physical form.

Within does not exist.

Neither does without.

(T)here is neither within nor without.

You have a choice.

You do not need to die.

Practise choosing.
